School-to-Career

• The School-to-Career Program at Narragansett High School provides students with the opportunity to explore occupational areas of interest by participating in internships during the school day. Working at businesses and social service agencies throughout the community, students are able to apply their skills and talents in “real world” settings. Students may remain in one internship or participate in various internships throughout their time in the program.

• In addition to community based internships, students engage in a series of structured classroom activities designed to facilitate a smooth transition from high school to post secondary life. These include journaling, and the creation of career related documents such as resumes, cover letters, letters of request for references, and thank you letters.

• Students also complete a research project on post-secondary educational options and one on a career area of interest.

• The internship experience culminates in a “signature” project that demonstrates and applies the competencies that a student has gained over the course of the internship.

Mary Ellen Keiser – School-to-Career Transition Coordinator

Kristen Shea – Vocational Specialist